Legge Resigns as Chairman Federal Farm Board

COMMISSIONER

CHAIRMAN

FOLLOW LEGGE TO RETIRE-MENT IN JUNE

Washington, March 6.—(U.P.)—Resignation of Alexander Legge as chairman of the federal farm board, was announced this afternoon by the White House, the United Press learned.

The resignation, the imminence of which Mr. Hoover long has known, has been accepted.

Vice Chairman James E. Stone, of Louisville, Ky., tobacco member of the board, is to be elevated to the chairmanship, according to authoritative information.

Samuel R. McKelvie, wheat member, and C. C. Teague, fruit and nut member, are expected to follow Legge into retirement about June 1. McKelvie's term will have expired then, while Teague is anxious to get back to the California Walnut Growers Association of both of which he is president.

Legge has served as chairman of the farm board since the board's creation July 1, 1929. He was persuaded by President Hoover to relinquish the presidency of the International Harvester Company to take the post.

Badgered by congress since the board's inception, Legge has been anxious to resign for the past year, but always was persuaded by Mr. Hoover to remain a little longer.

His duties here completed, Legge will return to take up the reins with the International Harvester Company and to organize the "agricultural foundation," a dream of his to cure the ills of agriculture.

FIRST MARKET IN VATICAN CITY

TO BE OPENED SHORTLY BY THE POPE, 2-STORY BUILDING FOR SALE OF FOODSTUFFS

Vatican City, March 6.—(U.P.)—The first market in the Vatican City will be opened shortly by the pope. It is a two-story building destined for the sale of foodstuffs. No money will change hands, however, the citizens of the papal state receiving their supplies solely through identification cards.

The market is to be operated directly by the civil authorities of the Vatican City, thus excluding the possibility of speculation. Special care will be taken to prevent supplies being smuggled across the Italian frontier.

Under the lateran treaty, the Vatican City receives all its commodities from Italy free of duty, hence they are much cheaper than those bought by Italian citizens.

It is understood that many Italians have applied for work in the Vatican City, involving adoption of its citizenship, with the obvious aim of securing a cheaper cost of living. The Vatican civil authorities, however, have rejected these applications.

PRESIDENT HOOVER PLANNING TO VISIT SON AT ASHEVILLE

Washington, March 6.—(U.P.)—President Hoover is planning an early trip to Asheville, N. C., to visit his son, Herbert Hoover, Jr., and probably will leave tomorrow night for the southern resort, it was announced today at the White House.

The president's son has been ill for several months, but is now improving. Mr. Hoover has not seen him since last autumn when he was removed to Asheville from the president's Rapidan retreat in nearby Virginia.

It has been arranged tentatively for Mr. Hoover to spend Sunday with his son and return to Washington Sunday.

Suit Against Mayo Clinic is Remanded Back to County Court

St. Paul, Minn., March 6.—(U.P.)—The state supreme court refused today to rule on a suit for $20,000 against the Mayo Clinic of Rochester, Minn., which was instituted by Otto Schmucking.

Schmucking charged the clinic was guilty of negligence in performing a goitre operation on him four years ago.

The case was certified to the supreme court on the Mayo Clinic's demurrer, but the supreme court today remanded it back to Olmstead county court for trial.

SUFFERING SURGEON'S FIRST THOUGHT IS FOR HIS PATIENT

Kansas City, Kan., March 6.—(U.P.)—Despite intense pain from an acute attack of appendicitis, Dr. D. E. Smith completed an abdominal operation on a patient before he collapsed.

Ten minutes later Dr. Smith was on the operating table himself. "He must have suffered acutely," an assisting surgeon said. "However, he showed no signs of it until he turned away from the table. Then he crumpled down by the door."

The operation on Dr. Smith was successful and attendants said today he would undoubtedly recover.

KIRKLAND DEFENDS HIMSELF FROM THE WITNESS STAND

DENIES MURDERING ARLENE
DRAVES WITH BLOWS
AND ATTACKS

SHED TEARS WHEN HE FIRST STARTED TO GIVE HIS TESTIMONY

Valparaiso, Ind., March 6.—(U.P.)—Virgil Kirkland defended himself from the witness stand today against the charge that he murdered pretty Arlene Draves, 18-year-old school girl, with blows and attacks during a drinking party in Gary.

Kirkland jumped from his seat in the courtroom when his name was called and walked quickly to the stand to tell his story of the November night that Arlene died.

When Defense Attorney Barrett O'Hara asked if he knew Arlene Draves, Kirkland started to cry. O'Hara encouraged him. He straightened up and said he had known Arlene for three years.

"I was out to Gay Mill dance hall in Miller (a suburb) one Sunday night, like young do," he testified as to how he met the girl. "I saw a girl inside the door. She appealed to me. I asked her for a dance and she assented. We kidded like young people do and I asked her for a date. She said her parents wouldn't let her date because she was too young."

Kirkland said he was "carrying ice" then, but told Arlene he was a "university man"—"just kidding."

He said he saw her the next day while he was carrying ice and made a date to see her that night.

After that he saw her often. Their romance, Virgil testified, quickly reached the point where Arlene gave him all the dances when they went to the Gay Mill.

Virgil told of driving to Chicago with Arlene, her sister Carolyn and another boy. He was nervous as he told of his "sweet nothings" recited to Arlene.

Virgil said he was injured while playing on the Horace Mann high school football team and went to a hospital for two operations. Arlene visited him "as often as possible," accompanied by another girl, Margery.

"One night when they came over, Margery said, 'Babe (Arlene) is going to do something, aren't you, Babe?' Kirkland testified. "Babe just laughed. When they got up to go, Margery said, 'Now's your chance.' Then Babe walked over, leaned down and kissed me."

"Did you ever forget that kiss, Virgil?" O'Hara asked.

There was no answer. Virgil bowed his head and wept.

"Did you love Arlene Draves?" O'Hara asked.

"Of course, I did," Kirkland replied. Finally, he testified, he asked Arlene to become his wife. They attempted to elope, he said, but Arlene became ill when they got to Valparaiso and the wedding was put off.

Kirkland climaxed the narrative by acting out the fall which the defense claims caused her death.

O'Hara tried to act the part of Arlene but Judge Crumpacker ordered him to desist, and directed Virgil to demonstrate not only his own movements, but also those of his 18-year-old sweetheart.

Arlene and Kirkland had joined with the others in "ganging around" two gallons of liquor—wine and alcohol—in the kitchen, the youth testified.

Then, when the party was well under way, he said, he took Arlene out to the porch. She did not resist his advances, he said.

A few minutes later, Arlene arose to go into the house, but stumbled and fell face downward to the floor, Kirkland related.

"I did not know she was hurt badly," he said, "because she talked to me." Kirkland, anxious over her condition, then took her to an automobile "for fresh air." They fell asleep, he said, but he awoke when Thompson and Paul Barton came out and drove to a lunch room for sandwiches. Arlene remained in the automobile while Kirkland went inside and washed his

CAPITAL OF MAURITIUS ISLAND

AT TURORO, N. S. WAVES ROAR
IN FROM ATLANTIC, ISOLATING
VILLAGERS

Amsterdam, March 6.—(U.P.)—An earthquake at Tjokkili, Java, killed several persons and destroyed many houses today, reports received here said.

Thousands fled from their homes, which were flooded by the bursting of dykes in the river Tjitaroen.

Cape Town, March 6.—Many persons were reported today to have been killed in a cyclone at Port Louis, capital of the island of Mauritius, formerly Ile de France.

The city was without light and communications were interrupted, reports received here said. Banks and businesses were closed.

Turoro, N. S., March 6.—Twenty families have been huddled for more than a night and day in upper stories of their homes on Devil's Island while roaring waves, sweeping in from the sea through the hamlet's streets, seethed below them.

Word of the plight of the islanders came in telephone messages here during the night. The messages told of a 90-mile gale which sent the seas racing through the village, pounding the structures and weakening their foundations. Blinding snow and sleet added to the discomfort of the marooned families.

Truro, N. S., March 6.—The Furness Red Cross liner Rosalind which sent out distress signals yesterday after losing its propeller in a storm was believed to be in no immediate danger today.

The liner Newfoundland bound from Halifax to Liverpool, changed her course and is speeding to assistance of the Rosalind. The Franklin Foundation, a Newfoundland government craft, is standing by about 200 miles out of Halifax.

About 100 persons are reported to be aboard, including 55 members of the crew.

Meanwhile, some uneasiness was felt for the other two craft.

The Red Cross liner Sylvia, bound from New York to Halifax, reported by wireless she was 100 miles out of Halifax and in difficulty. Heavy seas were buffeting her about. Tugs were dispatched to her aid. The Sylvia carried a heavy cargo and 25 passengers.

Owners of the fishing vessel Katrina, 2 tons, carrying Captain Wesley Levy and a crew of seven, has not been heard from since she left Liverpool Tuesday night just before the gale broke. She was headed for Emerald Banks.

Paris, March 6.—The United States liner President Harding, en route from Hamburg to New York, wireless today that she had been damaged and was heading for Southampton for repairs.

Boston, March 6.—Devastation unparalleled in nearly a generation lay

To Harness River Made Famous in Longfellow's Hiawatha

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., March 6.—(U.P.)—Harnessing of Tahquamenon river, made famous in Longfellow's Hiawatha, is being planned by the Cliffs Power and Light Co. It was learned today.

Power derived from the water would be used to serve Newberry, Mich.

Strong opposition is being voiced by tourists and other interested persons because it is feared that harnessing the stream would eliminate Tahquamenon falls, one of the largest west of Niagara.

SOUTH DAKOTA TO BE NO DIVORCE CENTER OF WEST

HOPE OF "EASY LAWS" CRUSHED
BY THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Pierre, S. D., March 6.—(U.P.)—South Dakota's hopes of becoming the divorce center of the middle west with "easy laws" were crushed today when the house of representatives voted to postpone indefinitely consideration of a measure reducing the term of residence to 90 days.

The measure, which its supporters contended would give South Dakota some of the divorce business that now goes to Reno, was postponed by a vote of 69 to 30.

The proposal received the approval of the state senate on Tuesday and the house committee reported favorably yesterday.

Carson City, Nev., March 6.—Nevada was ready today with its answer to the attempts of other states to encroach upon its "divorce business."

The state legislature has a measure reducing the residence period required for divorce purposes to six weeks.

The existing Nevada law, which pioneered in easy divorce legislation and brought the divorce colony to Reno, requires three months' residence. Arkansas and Idaho have just reduced their own residence periods to three months, and Nevada legislators realized they must take measures to "meet opposition."

The judiciary committee made but one amendment, providing that any person filing a divorce suit must have lived in the state only six weeks. Zealous authors of the bill had required only one week's residence.

today in the wake of three monster tides which rolled in from a turbulent and storm-torn Atlantic Wednesday and yesterday and hammered a 200-mile stretch of the New England coast.

Estimates of the damage ranged upward of $2,000,000.

Scores of seaside houses were in ruins. Others had been carried to sea. Breakwaters at many points had been destroyed or severely damaged. Rail lines, trolley tracks and highways had been washed out. Hundreds of persons were homeless. One ship had foundered, another had narrowly escaped a like fate, and several others had been imperilled. At least two deaths were attributed to the severe storm which was partly responsible for the near-record tides.

ARLENE DRAVES' BODY EXHUMED

WORE STRAW HAT AND OVERSHOES THE YEAR 'ROUND

Durango, Colo., March 6.—(U.P.)—Charlie Rew, who wore a straw hat and overshoes the year 'round and drove his transfer horse at the old mining town of Silverton for 45 years, is dead.

"Charlie," as he was known to thousands for his eccentric ways, was 78 years old. He had never married and had no patience with "new fangled" ideas. He clung to his horse delivery through the years despite the automobile.

Rew was born in England and came to this country when he was a young man.

ST. PAUL PAWN BROKER TURNS TABLES ON BANDITS

LOUIS LAZARUS BREAKS WIRE
BONDS AND SHOTS DOWN
ONE OF THEM

ALSO BRINGS ABOUT THE CAP-
TURE OF THE SECOND
ROBBER

St. Paul, March 6.—(U.P.)—Louis Lazarus, a pawn broker, shot and probably fatally wounded one bandit and brought about the capture of another today after they had robbed his shop and tied him with wire.

The two bandits entered the store and asked to be fitted with overcoats, apparently playing for time until two other customers left the store. Then they took revolvers from their pockets, ordered Lazarus into a closet and bound him with wire to a chair.

While they were emptying the safe and selecting jewelry from showcases, a friend of Lazarus, Oswald Silver, entered. He likewise was trussed up with wire.

In the meantime, Lazarus had loosened his bonds and as the bandits left the door he freed himself. He snatched a revolver from a counter, rushed out the door and jerked open the door of an automobile in which the bandits were attempting to escape.

"Stick 'em up," he shouted, brandishing the revolver.

Taken completely by surprise, the robbers obeyed. As they started to leave the automobile, however, one of them pulled a revolver from his pocket.

Lazarus shot him five times in the chest and stomach. The other bandit gave up and was taken to jail.

The wounded bandit who was identified as Cliff Lawrence, 25, was reported in a serious condition at Ancker hospital. The other robber gave his name as Homer Bernier, 24, and said that both he and Lawrence lived in St. Paul.

"I'd been held up four times already, and I just made up my mind it would not happen again," Lazarus said in commenting on the robbery.

QUARTER MILLION IN COMPENSATION LOANS AT ST. PAUL

St. Paul, March 6.—(U.P.)—The First National Bank of St. Paul has mailed checks for more than $250,000 to world war veterans in the last two days, Frank Delaney, vice president, announced today.

The bank has a force of about 330 accountants and clerks working day and night on adjusted compensation loans, Delaney said.

INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE IS
SAID TO BE EVENLY DIVIDED
ON REPORT

SENATE ALMOST AS CLOSELY DI-
VIDED ON THE ISSUES
PRESENTED

St. Paul, Minn., March 6.—(U.P.)—Rumblings of a bitter contest over the confirmation of F. A. Duxbury, Minneapolis, to be state industrial commissioner, were heard at the state capitol today.

The senate committee hearing the investigation of Senator Gerald T. Mullin's charges that the commission was prejudiced against the interests of labor was to have drawn up its report for presentation to the senate today. However, it was reported that the members were so evenly divided in their views that final consideration was postponed until Tuesday.

It was reported that six of the 11 members of the committee wanted to write a favorable report on Duxbury, the last of the appointees of former Governor Theodore Christianson to receive the fire of the senate at confirmation.

The committee will report its findings to the senate next week, it is expected. When the report is offered, the minority will seek to have its unfavorable report substituted for consideration. The senate itself was almost as closely divided as the committee and there was no indication what the final disposal of the case would be.

Governor Floyd B. Olson meanwhile continued his conferences with agricultural leaders on a nominee to succeed N. J. Holmberg as commissioner of agriculture. His case and Duxbury's were linked because both were Christianson appointments.

At a joint public hearing of the motor vehicle committees of both houses last night, a packed gallery heard arguments for and against the measure to prevent truck lines from charging lower freight rates than competing railroads.

Fred S. Keiser, traffic director of the Duluth Chamber of Commerce, and Herman Mueller, traffic director of the St. Paul Association, opposed the measure.

Keiser said, "The railroads want to give service, but only the kind of service they want to give, not what is wanted. We in Duluth found that we had to resort to trucks to hold business in our trade territory. The merchants of our territory demand the speedier and more frequent service with store to door delivery. We are going to have store to door deliveries even if we have to subsidize it."

The Duluth man said that the proposed measure, which also would allow the railroad and warehouse commission to discontinue any trunk line not making money, would be the best way he could conceive to kill truck lines in Minnesota.

Alex Jans of the Great Northern railroad said that truck lines almost without exception duplicated parallel railroad lines. He said there would be no competition if the rates were regulated as proposed and asked passage of the bill.

"When a railroad can furnish sufficient service, I submit as an economic principle that the citizens of Minnesota can not afford to have that service duplicated," Jans said.

STATE HIGHWAY DEPT. IS PROBED

REPS. E. P. SCALLON AND QUIN-
LAVEN ARE MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE

St. Paul, Minn., March 6.—(U.P.)—Reps. E. P. Scallion of Crosby and R. J. Quinlaven of St. Cloud were appointed today to a house committee to obtain information concerning the policies, plans and activities of the state highway department.

Other members of the committee are Reps. Andrew Finseton of Kenyon, Ray G. Kern of Lake Elmo and J. A. Regan of Mankato. Speaker Oscar A. Swenson of the house also announced appointment of the following committee:

To investigate department of education: Reps. George W. Johnson of Duluth, August Zoch of Howard Lake, R. W. Hitchcock of Hibbing, O. J. Dahle of Spring Grove and Herman Dammann of Plato.

To investigate state rural credits bureau: Reps. O. C. Newman of Wheaton, J. E. Odegard of Santiago and Odd Elde of Fertile.

Mason City, Ia., March 6.—(U.P.)—Two prominent Mason City citizens were burned to death today when the expensive home of former Mayor T. A. Potter was destroyed.

The victims were Potter and William Hayes a former police judge and visitor at the Potter home.

Denver, Colo., March 6.—(U.P.)—The year's first real blizzard slowly lifted over the Rocky mountain region today, leaving behind the stinging lash of winter.

As the gales left a snow-blanket from Montana to New Mexico on their path south and eastward, temperatures dropped.

One to nine inches of snow, in many cases whipped into high drifts, blocking highways, delaying bus and train transportation and impeding travel on icy streets.

Airplane mail service was maintained at great hazard after a 24 hour delay. Bus traffic was impaired. Railroads kept within reasonable schedules.

Low temperatures added to the general inconvenience, but were welcomed by fruit growers on the western slope of Colorado, where buds were beginning to appear on trees.

The heavy snow marked the third precipitation to aid drought stricken farmers. Piling up a generous reserve in the hills, sources of irrigation waters, the storm insured practical banishment of drought in the arid Rocky mountain sections.

No reports of stock losses and no serious injuries were received. Wyoming still was in the grip of the storm.

Temperatures at Cheyenne, Yellowstone and Lander had dropped almost to zero. At Denver the coldest mark was 15 above; at Greeley, Colo., two above.

The blizzard today moved with some moderation across Nebraska, Kansas and Kansas, where the weather bureau predicted it would spend itself.

Kansas City, Mo., March 6.—(U.P.)—The most severe weather of an unusually mild winter was forecast today for the southwest.

Rain, sleet and snow were moving before a strong gale from the Rocky mountains toward Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Temperatures were expected to drop from the 60's of yesterday to well below freezing.

Widespread damage to fruit and early crops would result from a severe blizzard.

Says She Was Driven to Bootlegging to Support Her Baby

Minneapolis, March 6.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Alice Braden, 19, mother of a 14-months old baby, today accepted a 90-day workhouse sentence rather than give evidence the "wholesaler" from whom she purchased liquor for resale.

"I was driven to bootlegging to support my baby," she told Judge Clyde R. White. "My husband is in the penitentiary and I had no money."

Mrs. Braden insisted that she knew the man who supplied her with liquor only as "Joe." Judge White referred to her "unwillingness to cooperate with the court" in passing sentence.

WORE STRAW HAT AND OVERSHOES THE YEAR 'ROUND

Durango, Colo., March 6.—(U.P.)—Charlie Rew, who wore a straw hat and overshoes the year 'round and drove his transfer horse at the old mining town of Silverton for 45 years, is dead.

"Charlie," as he was known to thousands for his eccentric ways, was 78 years old. He had never married and had no patience with "new fangled" ideas. He clung to his horse delivery through the years despite the automobile.

Rew was born in England and came to this country when he was a young man.

ST. PAUL PAWN BROKER TURNS TABLES ON BANDITS

LOUIS LAZARUS BREAKS WIRE
BONDS AND SHOTS DOWN
ONE OF THEM

ALSO BRINGS ABOUT THE CAP-
TURE OF THE SECOND
ROBBER

St. Paul, March 6.—(U.P.)—Louis Lazarus, a pawn broker, shot and probably fatally wounded one bandit and brought about the capture of another today after they had robbed his shop and tied him with wire.

The two bandits entered the store and asked to be fitted with overcoats, apparently playing for time until two other customers left the store. Then they took revolvers from their pockets, ordered Lazarus into a closet and bound him with wire to a chair.

While they were emptying the safe and selecting jewelry from showcases, a friend of Lazarus, Oswald Silver, entered. He likewise was trussed up with wire.

In the meantime, Lazarus had loosened his bonds and as the bandits left the door he freed himself. He snatched a revolver from a counter, rushed out the door and jerked open the door of an automobile in which the bandits were attempting to escape.

"Stick 'em up," he shouted, brandishing the revolver.

Taken completely by surprise, the robbers obeyed. As they started to leave the automobile, however, one of them pulled a revolver from his pocket.

Lazarus shot him five times in the chest and stomach. The other bandit gave up and was taken to jail.

The wounded bandit who was identified as Cliff Lawrence, 25, was reported in a serious condition at Ancker hospital. The other robber gave his name as Homer Bernier, 24, and said that both he and Lawrence lived in St. Paul.

"I'd been held up four times already, and I just made up my mind it would not happen again," Lazarus said in commenting on the robbery.

QUARTER MILLION IN COMPENSATION LOANS AT ST. PAUL

St. Paul, March 6.—(U.P.)—The First National Bank of St. Paul has mailed checks for more than $250,000 to world war veterans in the last two days, Frank Delaney, vice president, announced today.

The bank has a force of about 330 accountants and clerks working day and night on adjusted compensation loans, Delaney said.

INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE IS
SAID TO BE EVENLY DIVIDED
ON REPORT

SENATE ALMOST AS CLOSELY DI-
VIDED ON THE ISSUES
PRESENTED

St. Paul, Minn., March 6.—(U.P.)—Rumblings of a bitter contest over the confirmation of F. A. Duxbury, Minneapolis, to be state industrial commissioner, were heard at the state capitol today.

The senate committee hearing the investigation of Senator Gerald T. Mullin's charges that the commission was prejudiced against the interests of labor was to have drawn up its report for presentation to the senate today. However, it was reported that the members were so evenly divided in their views that final consideration was postponed until Tuesday.

It was reported that six of the 11 members of the committee wanted to write a favorable report on Duxbury, the last of the appointees of former Governor Theodore Christianson to receive the fire of the senate at confirmation.

The committee will report its findings to the senate next week, it is expected. When the report is offered, the minority will seek to have its unfavorable report substituted for consideration. The senate itself was almost as closely divided as the committee and there was no indication what the final disposal of the case would be.

Governor Floyd B. Olson meanwhile continued his conferences with agricultural leaders on a nominee to succeed N. J. Holmberg as commissioner of agriculture. His case and Duxbury's were linked because both were Christianson appointments.

At a joint public hearing of the motor vehicle committees of both houses last night, a packed gallery heard arguments for and against the measure to prevent truck lines from charging lower freight rates than competing railroads.

Fred S. Keiser, traffic director of the Duluth Chamber of Commerce, and Herman Mueller, traffic director of the St. Paul Association, opposed the measure.

Keiser said, "The railroads want to give service, but only the kind of service they want to give, not what is wanted. We in Duluth found that we had to resort to trucks to hold business in our trade territory. The merchants of our territory demand the speedier and more frequent service with store to door delivery. We are going to have store to door deliveries even if we have to subsidize it."

The Duluth man said that the proposed measure, which also would allow the railroad and warehouse commission to discontinue any trunk line not making money, would be the best way he could conceive to kill truck lines in Minnesota.

Alex Jans of the Great Northern railroad said that truck lines almost without exception duplicated parallel railroad lines. He said there would be no competition if the rates were regulated as proposed and asked passage of the bill.

"When a railroad can furnish sufficient service, I submit as an economic principle that the citizens of Minnesota can not afford to have that service duplicated," Jans said.

STATE HIGHWAY DEPT. IS PROBED

St. Paul, Minn., March 6.—(U.P.)—Reps. E. P. Scallon of Crosby and R. J. Quinlaven of St. Cloud were appointed today to a house committee to obtain information concerning the policies, plans and activities of the state highway department.

Other members of the committee are Reps. Andrew Finstuen of Kenyon, Ray G. Kern of Lake Elmo and J. A. Regan of Mankato. Speaker Oscar A. Swenson of the house also announced appointment of the following committee:

To investigate department of education: Reps. George W. Johnson of Duluth, August Zoch of Howard Lake, R. W. Hitchcock of Hibbing, O. J. Dahle of Spring Grove and Herman Dammann of Plato.

To investigate state rural credits bureau: Reps. O. C. Newman of Wheaton, J. E. Odegard of Santiago and Odd Elide of Fertile.

TWO LOSE LIVES IN MASON CITY FIRE

Mason City, Ia., March 6.—(U.P.)—Two prominent Mason City citizens were burned to death today when the expensive home of former Mayor T. A. Potter was destroyed.

The victims were Potter and William Hayes, a former police judge and visitor at the Potter home.

ARLENE DRAVES' BODY EXHUMED

At left Carl and Kenneth, brothers of Arlene Draves, stand with hearts full of grief at the re-opened grave of their sister, whose body was re-examined by medical experts on the plea of Virgil Kirkland's defenders. At right is scene in the little Lutheran cemetery at Reynolds, Ind., as the gray casket containing the mortal remains of Arlene Draves was borne to the City Hall, where doctors performed another autopsy.

CRITICS MARVEL AT AROMA AND FLAVOR
OF FAMOUS COFFEE

Patented Roasting Process is the Reason for Distinctive Goodness

Of all coffees being sold today, there is one that is winning countless new friends wherever it is introduced because of its distinctive, rich flavor. As a matter of fact, more of this coffee is sold west of the Mississippi than any other brand of fine coffee.

Hills Bros. Coffee owes its matchless flavor to the patented process by which it is roasted. Instead of the rare blend being roasted in bulk, only a few pounds at a time pass continuously through roasters in which the heat and speed of operation are accurately controlled.

This process—Controlled Roasting—proves its superiority over any other method, because it roasts every berry evenly. None are overdone and none are underdone. Naturally a flavor is developed which is the last word in uniform goodness and one that no other coffee can equal.

Hills Bros. Coffee is sold everywhere by grocers. It comes to you perfectly fresh because it is packed in vacuum. This process extracts air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, from the can and keeps it out. Ordinary cans, even if airtight, do not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

CRITICS MARVEL AT AROMA AND FLAVOR OF FAMOUS COFFEE

Patented Roasting Process is the Reason for Distinctive Goodness

Of all coffees being sold today, there is one that is winning countless new friends wherever it is introduced because of its distinctive, rich flavor. As a matter of fact, more of this coffee is sold west of the Mississippi than any other brand of fine coffee.

Hills Bros. Coffee owes its matchless flavor to the patented process by which it is roasted. Instead of the rare blend being roasted in bulk, only a few pounds at a time pass continuously through roasters in which the heat and speed of operation are accurately controlled.

This process—Controlled Roasting—proves its superiority over any other method, because it roasts every berry evenly. None are overdone and none are underdone. Naturally a flavor is developed which is the last word in uniform goodness and one that no other coffee can equal.

Hills Bros. Coffee is sold everywhere by grocers. It comes to you perfectly fresh because it is packed in vacuum. This process extracts air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, from the can and keeps it out. Ordinary cans, even if airtight, do not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc., Minneapolis, Minnesota.

vanced fractions to 2 points at the opening today with dealings fairly active.

Leading shares were in demand with U. S. Steel at 146½, up ¼; Westinghouse Electric 98½, up ¼; Woolworth 61½, up ¼; American Telephone 199, up ¼; Auburn 201, up 2; Radio Corporation 24½, up ¼; United Aircraft 34½, up 1 on 6,000 shares, and Vanadium 67½, up ¼.

United Corporation featured the utilities in activity, opening on a block of 10,000 shares at 28½, up ¼, and a new high for the year.

FEWER WOLVES IN COUNTY THIS YEAR

Farmers, Trappers and Hunters Report Wolves Nearly Depleted;
Few Killed

Wolves are fewer in number this year in Crow Wing county than in any previous year, farmers, trappers and hunters report.

Likewise there has been a big drop in the payment of bounties,

Deputy County Auditor Henry Kraus reports.

John Peterson of Pequot brought to Brainerd today a wolf hide which he shot near Pequot.

Others who have collected bounties since the first of the new year are: Vernon Lambert, Emily; Byron Anderson, Daggett Brook; Alfred Monson, Rabbit Lake; Martin Dehning, Rabbit Lake; Henry Pietz, Baxter; Albert Larson, Irondale; Earl Schultz, Jenkins; Henry Wickham, Nokay Lake; Carl Wenzel, Dean Lake.

The near depletion of wolves in the county is blamed to heavy killings in the past few years. The majority of wolves have been driven out, the farmers report, saying that it is now a rare sight to see wolves in the woods.

The SECRET of Good Coffee is

BAKER-IZING

Baker-izing is a costly process because it removes undesirable elements from coffee. It is the only process that fully enhances the goodness of the world's finest coffee. Scientifically designed instruments control all the machinery so as to insure uniformity and a continuous flow of coffee throughout the whole process.

The Baker-izing process, from modern cleaning, modern roasting, modern purifying to the vacuum sealing of coffee while still hot, in the "Safety-First" key-opening cans, without being touched by human hands, requires less than fifteen minutes. TRULY, one of the wonders of the modern coffee world.

When you buy coffee insist that it is Baker-ized because only then will you get the best there is in coffee. DEMAND IT. Ask for it.

ALL-BRAN BROUGHT WELCOME RELIEF

THOUSANDS of letters attest to the efficiency of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in overcoming constipation. For instance, Mr. James D. McEnery, Alto, Texas, relates his experience:

"For fifteen years I was constantly bothered with constipation. . . . Some eighteen months ago, I began using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. From the first week to this good day, I have never had to take a dose of laxative medicine of any description."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the largest-selling all-bran cereal in the world. Two tablespoons daily are guaranteed to give relief. How much safer than using habit-forming laxatives.

ALL-BRAN also adds needed iron to build the blood. In the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

FEWER WOLVES IN COUNTY THIS YEAR

Farmers, Trappers and Hunters Report Wolves Nearly Depleted;
Few Killed

Wolves are fewer in number this year in Crow Wing county than in any previous year, farmers, trappers and hunters report.

Likewise there has been a big drop-off in the payment of bounties, wolves have been driven out, the Deputy County Auditor Henry Krause reports.

John Peterson of Pequot brought to Brainerd today a wolf hide which he shot near Pequot.

Others who have collected bounties since the first of the new year are: Vernon Lambert, Emily; Byron Anderson, Daggett Brook; Alfred Monson, Rabbit Lake; Martin Dehning, Rabbit Lake; Henry Pietz, Baxter; Albert Larson, Irondale; Earl Schultz, Jenkins; Henry Wickham, Nokay Lake; Carl Wenzel, Dean Lake.

The near depletion of wolves in the county is blamed to heavy killings in the past few years. The majority of farmers report, saying that it is now a rare sight to see wolves in the woods.

Holm Replies to Critics

In a letter to the Brainerd Dispatch, Mike Holm, Secretary of State, gives explanation of his attitude regarding the bill to extend the time for payment of motor vehicle taxes and says he worked to provide relief for those who could not pay their vehicle tax on time.

He mentions meeting with the motor vehicle committee of the house and pointing out that to give the people relief through an extension of time, the legislation should have been started long before in order to give time for full publicity through the country press, so that the taxpayers of the state generally could take advantage of it. At the time this bill was introduced it was not possible to spread the information so generally, because a large number of the country papers for the week had gone to press before the bill could have become a law.

That people had made preparation for payment without the extension of time was made evident by the fact that during January this year the department had collected $120,000 more than during the month of January last year.

Mr. Holm urged passage of House File 460 as affording more relief under present conditions.

"I have worked consistently to provide relief for those who could not pay their motor vehicle tax on time," says Mr. Holm. "My recommendations to the Legislature will prove this. When the maximum penalty was $15, I pointed out how exorbitant and unreasonable such a penalty was, and the maximum was reduced to $10. Again I continued my recommendations for a reduction, and the maximum was reduced to $7.50.

"Now any one interested may interview Representative Children of International Falls, the author of House File 460, which has now become a law, and he will agree that it was at my suggestion that he had this bill prepared and introduced which reduced the penalty from $3.50 for the first eleven days of delay to $1 for the first thirty-three days.

"Is it not better to have reduced the penalty and extended the time for its accrual in this way? Penalty would have accrued to $3.50 for the first eleven days of delay. Under this new law the penalty will not accrue to $3 until April 23, and will not accrue to $4 until May 24. Had I been asked to speak in the early part of the committee meeting it might have been claimed that I influenced the committee. As it was I should not be either credited or discredited for the committee's action. Why should it be made to appear that difficulties of tax payment are chargeable only to me? No one has said anything about extending the time for payment of personal property tax which becomes delinquent if not paid by March 1."

Melodrama is Coming Back

EVERY one knows that art has its cycles and its fashions, says the Chicago News. On New York's street of theaters, Broadway, the most notable feature of the present season is the return of the old-style melodrama. Some new plays of that genre have scored remarkable successes, not alone from the box office point of view, but also from the point of view of intelligent criticism.

Some of the critics, it is true, appear to be a little ashamed of their enjoyment of "mere melodrama." Their comments are half-apologetic. But others, including the editor of the Guild Theater Monthly, have the courage of their sentiments and reactions. They remind the sophisticated public that, after all, melodrama has a legitimate place in the sun, and that there are and will continue to be good as well as mediocre, or very crude and bad, melodramas.

Why should not the public be candid with itself and enjoy a good stirring play despite its classification and label? Life is not always as logical, symmetrical and well balanced as is the highly artistic drama or the perfectly articulated society comedy. In life there is plenty of melodrama, as there is of pure farce. The theater should not restrict itself to any one form of dramatic art, and the test for a given play should be relevant to the category to which that particular play belongs. The intelligent public enjoys tragedy, comedy, romantic drama and farce, as well as composites of these forms, provided a certain standard is observed by the artist and the interpreters of his art.

Melodramatic motion pictures are popular. There is no reason why worthy melodrama should not return, for a time at least, to the theater and receive a welcome.

Numerous Earthquakes

THE numerous earthquakes recorded throughout the world is evidence that the earth has a lot of internal trouble. Old volcanoes burst to life, sites of old earthquakes get new visitations of the malady and there is a general disturbance on the earth's crust resulting in tidal waves, hurricanes, landslides, etc.

The whole thing is to be regarded as some periodical readjustment of the earth and coupled with this it has brought about climatic changes.

Passing of a Great Newspaper

THE absorption of the New York World three editions by the New York Telegram witnesses the passing of a great newspaper. True, some of its main features may continue in the new World-Telegram.

The saddest thing noted is the scattering of the employees of the World who before the end came sought vainly to preserve its entity by forming an employees association seeking to buy the property.

ONCE in a great while the worm turns. The average crossing accident is recorded as so-and-so's truck or car was hit by a train. Four years ago an Ohio man crashed into the side of a locomotive on a grade crossing and sued the railroad for damages and lost. The railway company then took its turn and sued the truck owner for damages to the locomotive and won a $991 verdict.

Spider's Valuable Secret

Vast engineering schemes at present unthought of would be possible if science could reveal the secret of the spider's web. If man could make ropes and cables with the approximate strength of a spider's web, suspension bridges could be thrown across on small cables, and, being light and easy to anchor, there would be no limit to their length.

Holm Replies to Critics

In a letter to the Brainerd Dispatch, Mike Holm, Secretary of State, gives explanation of his attitude regarding the bill to extend the time for payment of motor vehicle taxes and says he worked to provide relief for those who could not pay their vehicle tax on time.

He mentions meeting with the motor vehicle committee of the house and pointing out that to give the people relief through an extension of time, the legislation should have been started long before in order to give time for full publicity through the country press, so that the taxpayers of the state generally could take advantage of it. At the time this bill was introduced it was not possible to spread the information so generally, because a large number of the country papers for the week had gone to press before the bill could have become a law.

That people had made preparation for payment without the extension of time was made evident by the fact that during January this year the department had collected $120,000 more than during the month of January last year.

Mr. Holm urged passage of House File 460 as affording more relief under present conditions.

"I have worked consistently to provide relief for those who could not pay their motor vehicle tax on time," says Mr. Holm. "My recommendations to the Legislature will prove this. When the maximum penalty was $15, I pointed out how exorbitant and unreasonable such a penalty was, and the maximum was reduced to $10. Again I continued my recommendations for a reduction, and the maximum was reduced to $7.50.

"Now any one interested may interview Representative Childgren of International Falls, the author of House File 460, which has now become a law, and he will agree that it was at my suggestion that he had this bill prepared and introduced which reduced the penalty from $3.50 for the first eleven days of delay to $1 for the first thirty-three days.

"Is it not better to have reduced the penalty and extended the time for its accrual in this way? Penalty would have accrued to $3.50 for the first eleven days of delay. Under this new law the penalty will not accrue to $3 until April 23, and will not accrue to $4 until May 24. Had I been asked to speak in the early part of the committee meeting it might have been claimed that I influenced the committee. As it was I should not be either credited or discredited for the committee's action. Why should it be made to appear that difficulties of tax payment are chargeable only to me? No one has said anything about extending the time for payment of personal property tax which becomes delinquent if not paid by March 1."

Melodrama is Coming Back

EVERY one knows that art has its cycles and its fashions, says the Chicago News. On New York's street of theaters, Broadway, the most notable feature of the present season is the return of the old-style melodrama. Some new plays of that genre have scored remarkable successes, not alone from the box office point of view, but also from the point of view of intelligent criticism.

Some of the critics, it is true, appear to be a little ashamed of their enjoyment of "mere melodrama." Their comments are half-apologetic. But others, including the editor of the Guild Theater Monthly, have the courage of their sentiments and reactions. They remind the sophisticated public that, after all, melodrama has a legitimate place in the sun, and that there are and will continue to be good as well as mediocre, or very crude and bad, melodramas.

Why should not the public be candid with itself and enjoy a good stirring play despite its classification and label? Life is not always as logical, symmetrical and well balanced as is the highly artistic drama or the perfectly articulated society comedy. In life there is plenty of melodrama, as there is of pure farce. The theater should not restrict itself to any one form of dramatic art, and the test for a given play should be relevant to the category to which that particular play belongs. The intelligent public enjoys tragedy, comedy, romantic drama and farce, as well as composites of these forms, provided a certain standard is observed by the artist and the interpreters of his art.

Melodramatic motion pictures are popular. There is no reason why worthy melodrama should not return, for a time at least, to the theater and receive a welcome.

Numerous Earthquakes

THE numerous earthquakes recorded throughout the world is evidence that the earth has a lot of internal trouble. Old volcanoes burst to life, sites of old earthquakes get new visitations of the malady and there is a general disturbance on the earth's crust resulting in tidal waves, hurricanes, landslides, etc.

The whole thing is to be regarded as some periodical readjustment of the earth and coupled with this it has brought about climatic changes.

Passing of a Great Newspaper

THE absorption of the New York World three editions by the New York Telegram witnesses the passing of a great newspaper. True, some of its main features may continue in the new World-Telegram.

The saddest thing noted is the scattering of the employees of the World who before the end came sought vainly to preserve its entity by forming an employees association seeking to buy the property.

ONCE in a great while the worm turns. The average crossing accident is recorded as so-and-so's truck or car was hit by a train. Four years ago an Ohio man crashed into the side of a locomotive on a grade crossing and sued the railroad for damages and lost. The railway company then took its turn and sued the truck owner for damages to the locomotive and won a $991 verdict.

Spider's Valuable Secret

Vast engineering schemes at present unthought of would be possible if science could reveal the secret of the spider's web. If man could make ropes and cables with the approximate strength of a spider's web, suspension bridges could be thrown across on small cables, and being light and easy to anchor, there would be no limit to their length.

AMBLING ALP CARNERA WINS DECISION OVER MALONEY

ITALY'S BIGGEST GIFT TO BOXING
STILL IN PICTURE

CUSTOMERS' SYMPATHIES HOW-EVER WERE WITH JIMMY
MALONEY

CARNERA GREETED WITH BOOS,
IRISHMAN IS CHEERED
VOCIFEROUSLY

Miami, Fla., March 6.—(U.P.)—Primo Carnera, Italy's biggest if not most handsome gift to the boxing business, still was in the heavyweight championship picture today as a result of his ten-round decision over Jimmy Maloney, second-rate Boston veteran, at the Madison Square Garden arena last night.

Judging by the boos which greeted Referee Elmer "Slim" McClelland's decision Carnera never would have received the verdict had the spectators (all 18,000 of them) been allowed to vote. The big Italian was jerked from the minute the fight was over until he disappeared from view in his dressing room. Maloney, however, was cheered vociferously, and was borne to his dressing room on admirer's shoulders.

Many of those around the ringside were of the opinion that McClelland was unduly influenced by Carnera's strong finish. The Italian, after a sluggish start, won the last three rounds. In the eighth frame he smacked Maloney with two resounding rights to the jaw, the most effective punches of the fight. In the ninth and tenth he drove Maloney to the ropes and got in several hard cracks to the chin.

Maloney was most effective in the early rounds when his jab and run-away tactics worked to perfection. His jabbing kept his heavier foe from coming in close where the difference in weight really counted and made Carnera miss more than half his shots.

Carnera weighed 273½, Maloney 199. In the eight-round semi-final Maxie Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight champion, slapped and cuffed his way to a decision over Marty Gallagher, Washington, D. C., heavyweight. The champion weighed 182, Gallagher 202.

Walter Cobb, 221-pound Baltimore boy, credited with cracking Carnera's rib in training, won a six-round decision over Ralph Fieccello, 185, Brooklyn heavyweight.

Jimmy Braddock, 181, Jersey City, knocked out Jack Roper, 187, California, in 28 seconds of the first round. Jack Dorval, Emporium, Pa., 214, scored a six-round decision over Prince Salah El-Din, Cairo, Egypt, 209. Joe O'Donnell, Boston, 146½, won a four-round decision over Harry Paul, Philadelphia, 148.

Milwaukee, March 6.—(U.P.)—Harry Ebbetts, 169, Brooklyn, defeated Tail Littmann, 164, Milwaukee, in a close ten round bout last night. The decision was booted.

BOXING BILLS FOR STATE ARE TO BE CONSIDERED

WILL ROGERS BENT
ON FORMING A FAMILY POLO TEAM

Beverly Hills, Calif., March 6.—(U.P.)—Will Rogers, the actor, admitted today that society is interfering with his plans to organize a family polo team. Reminded that 20 years ago the polo team composed entirely of members of the E. J. Boeske family became famous, Rogers was asked why he did not make up a team composed of himself, his sons, Bill and Jimmy, and his daughter, Mary, all expert players. "I'd hoped to do that," Rogers answered, "but Mary's gone social on us. She hasn't time for polo; she's catching up with her dancing."

GRIFFITHS FIGHTS
LEVINSKY TONIGHT

MEET IN 10-ROUND BOUT AT CHICAGO STADIUM, 19,300
CROWD EXPECTED

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, March 6.—(U.P.)—Chicago's two foremost heavyweights, Tuffy Griffiths and King Levinsky, will meet in a 10-round bout at the Chicago Stadium tonight which is expected to attract a crowd of 19,000 and gate receipts of $85,000.

It will be the first fight between two prominent Chicago heavyweights since boxing was legalized in Illinois.

There is an outside chance that the winner will figure prominently in the heavyweight scramble this summer. Matchmaker Nate Lewis is endeavoring to pair the winner with Tommy Loughran here April 19 and then send the ultimate victor against Jack Sharkey in June.

Griffiths continued to rule a favorite today, generally at 8-5 but as high as 2-1 in some quarters. Levinsky's supporters hoped for a knockout and asked 1-3 on that ticket.

Another of those strange financial arrangements is attached to this match. Levinsky's contract calls for 50 per cent of the net receipts and he will pay Griffiths $25,000 out of his end. Figuring on the basis of a $65,000 house Levinsky can hope to get only about $13,000.

As Griffiths always has been known as "a sucker for a right hand," many believe that he will wind up sniffling the resin tonight. For Levinsky, the clumsy clown, can't do anything but hit with his right mitt. His most recent victim was Jack Gagnon of Boston, who once knocked out Griffiths.

COMMISSION
MEETS WITH LEGISLATORS

BILLS COVER WIDE LATITUDE,
SOME MAKE SPORT
STATE-WIDE

OTHERS BAN IT ENTIRELY, BOX-ING SCANDALS HAVE EFFECT

St. Paul, Minn., March 6.—(U.P.)—Members of the Minnesota boxing commission will have an opportunity to confer with state legislators who are considering bills which would either make boxing state-wide or ban it entirely, it was announced today.

Ray Kern of Lake Elmo, chairman of the house committee on general legislation, announced he has written a letter to members of the commission inviting them to attend sessions of the committee. Kern pointed out in his letter that scandal in connection with the recent King Tut-Billy Petrolle bout in New York has aroused sentiment against the state-wide bill.

"At our next meeting," Kern's letter said, "definite action probably will be taken on these measures, one of which would extend boxing to every part of the state and another which would repeal the state boxing law."

NO BREAK WITH THE
NO. CENTRAL BODY

FRITZ CRISLER SPEARS OF ATH-LETIC RELATIONS OF WEST-ERN CONFERENCE

Milwaukee, Wis., March 6.—(U.P.)—Although the western conference is expected to fight for control of its own athletics, Athletic Director Fritz Crisler of the University of Minnesota believes there will be no break with the North Central Association.

"The men in charge of Big Ten athletics are competent to conduct the affairs in a legitimate manner," he told members of the Minnesota Alumni Club here last night.

Touching briefly on his plans for increasing the Minnesota sports program, Crisler said the school needs an 18-hole golf course, three swimming pools, and an indoor hockey rink.

Minnesota, like Wisconsin, he said, should take advantage of the winter sports offered. An indoor hockey rink would stimulate great interest in the game, the coach believes.

Crisler said he would remain as head football coach and athletic director until the university's athletic affairs are "straightened out."

Boxing Considered
a Gentleman's
Pastime at Harvard

Cambridge, Mass., March 6.—(U.P.)—Boxing is a gentleman's pastime in the eyes of Harvard university authorities.

Here are the rules for tonight's fistic tourney between Harvard and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the first boxing meet to be held at America's oldest university.

1. No cheering

2. Applause only at the end of each bout.

3. The referee may disqualify any boxer whose followers cheer or applaud him while he is in action.

4. Spectators occupying ringside seats shall wear tuxedos.

5. The referee shall wear a tuxedo coat and white flannels.

The M. I. T. team will be led by Smedley D. Butler, Jr., son of the marine general, who will meet Michael J. A. Adlis of Harvard in the 175-pound class. Butler has not been defeated this season.

800 PERSONS ARE INJURED AT GAME

RIOTS AT FOOTBALL PLAY BE-TWEEN HINDUS AND MOHAM-
MEDANS IN INDIA

Bombay, March 6.—(U.P.)—Rioting at a football game between Hindus and Mohammedans at Bangalore, capital of Mysore, caused the injury today of 800 persons, an official announcement said.

False reports that a mosque had been damaged precipitated fighting among the crowd, already excited by partisan support of the football players. Part of the Mohammedans in the audience became violent and soon most of the crowd of 3,000 was engaged in a general fight on the field.

A detachment of the Mysore cavalry charged the crowd but was able to break up the demonstration only after troops dismounted and began firing into the air. The demonstrators fled from the field, pursued by the cavalry. Several horsemen were injured by stones.

Yankees in Practice Game

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 6.—Babe Ruth's team opposed an outfit captained by Lou Gehrig in the New York Yankee's first practice game here today. Ruth's lineup: Combs, cf; Lary, ss; Ruth, 1b; Chapman, 2b; Cooke, lf; Eyrd, rf; Sewell, 3b; Karlon, c; McEvoy, Weigert, Barnes, p. Gehrig's team: Reese, 2b; Hoag, rf; Werber, ss; Gibson, lf; Padden, c; Brown, Sherdid, Allen, p. Manager McCarthy said the line-up meant nothing so far as the regular season was concerned.

BANKER UPHELD

St. Paul, March 6.—(U.P.)—Conviction of Loomis F. Irish, president of the State Bank of Pine Island, Minn., on charges of grand larceny was upheld today by the state supreme court.

The charge grew out of the defendant's appropriation to his own use of $12,401 of the bank's funds. He secured this loan with securities bought at a sheriff's sale in north Dakota. Sale later in Pine Island brought only $3,365 for the securities.

Irish asked for a new trial, which was denied. He appealed and the lower court was affirmed.

AMBLING ALP CARNERA WINS DECISION OVER MALONEY

ITALY'S BIGGEST GIFT TO BOXING STILL IN PICTURE

CUSTOMERS' SYMPATHIES HOWEVER WERE WITH JIMMY MALONEY

CARNERA GREETED WITH BOOS, IRISHMAN IS CHEERED VOCIFEROUSLY

Miami, Fla., March 6.—(UP)—Primo Carnera, Italy's biggest if not most handsome gift to the boxing business, still was in the heavyweight championship picture today as a result of his ten-round decision over Jimmy Maloney, second-rate Boston veteran, at the Madison Square Garden arena last night.

Judging by the boos which greeted Referee Elmer "Slim" McClelland's decision Carnera never would have received the verdict had the spectators (all 18,000 of them) been allowed to vote. The big Italian was jerred from the minute the fight was over until he disappeared from view in his dressing room. Maloney, however, was cheered vociferously, and was borne to his dressing room on admirer's shoulders.

Many of those around the ringside were of the opinion that McClelland was unduly influenced by Carnera's strong finish. The Italian, after a sluggish start, won the last three rounds. In the eighth frame he smacked Maloney with two resounding rights to the jaw, the most effective punches of the fight. In the ninth and tenth he drove Maloney to the ropes and got in several hard cracks to the chin.

Maloney was most effective in the early rounds when his jab and run-away tactics worked to perfection. His jabbing kept his heavier foe from coming in close where the difference in weight really counted and made Carnera miss more than half his shots.

Carnera weighed 273½, Maloney 199. In the eight-round semi-final Maxie Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight champion, slapped and cuffed his way to a decision over Marty Gallagher, Washington, D. C., heavyweight. The champion weighed 182, Gallagher 202.

Walter Cobb, 221-pound Baltimore boy, credited with cracking Carnera's rib in training, won a 10-round decision over Ralph Fieucello, 189, Brooklyn heavyweight.

Jimmy Braddock, 181, Jersey City, knocked out Jack Roper, 187, California, in 28 seconds of the first round.

Jack Dorval, Emporium, Pa., 214, scored a six-round decision over Prince Salah El-Din, Cairo, Egypt, 209.

Joe O'Donnell, Boston, 146½, won a four-round decision over Harry Paul, Philadelphia, 148.

Milwaukee, March 6.—(UP)—Harry Ebbetts, 169, Brooklyn, defeated Tail Littmann, 164, Milwaukee, in a close ten round bout last night. The decision was booted.

BOXING BILLS FOR STATE ARE TO BE CONSIDERED

WILL ROGERS BENT ON FORMING A FAMILY POLO TEAM

Beverly Hills, Calif., March 6.—(UP)—Will Rogers, the actor, admitted today that society is interfering with his plans to organize a family polo team.

Reminded that 20 years ago the polo team composed entirely of members of the E. J. Boeske family became famous, Rogers was asked why he did not make up a team composed of himself, his sons, Bill and Jimmy, and his daughter, Mary, all expert players. "I'd hoped to do that," Rogers answered, "but Mary's gone solo on us. She hasn't time for polo; she's catching up with her dancing."

GRIFFITHS FIGHTS LEVINSKY TONIGHT

MEET IN 10-ROUND BOUT AT CHICAGO STADIUM, 19,300 CROWD EXPECTED

By GEORGE KIRKSEY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, March 6.—(UP)—Chicago's two foremost heavyweights, Tuffy Griffiths and King Levinsky, will meet in a 10-round bout at the Chicago Stadium tonight which is expected to attract a crowd of 19,000 and gate receipts of $65,000.

It will be the first fight between two prominent Chicago heavyweights since boxing was legalized in Illinois.

There is an outside chance that the winner will figure prominently in the heavyweight scramble this summer. Matchmaker Nate Lewis is endeavoring to pair the winner with Tommy Loughran here April 19 and then send the ultimate victor against Jack Sharkey in June.

Griffiths continued to rule a favorite today, generally at 8-5 but as high as 2-1 in some quarters. Levinsky's supporters hoped for a knockout and asked 1-3 on that ticket.

Another of those strange financial arrangements is attached to this match. Levinsky's contract calls for 50 per cent of the net receipts and he will pay Griffiths $25,000 out of his end. Figuring on the basis of a $65,000 house Levinsky can hope to get only about $13,000.

As Griffiths always has been known as "a sucker for a right hand," many believe that he will wind up sniffling the resin tonight. For Levinsky, the clumsy clown, can't do anything but sit with his right mitt. His most recent victim was Jack Gagnon of Boston, who once knocked out Griffiths.

COMMISSION MEETS WITH LEGISLATORS

BILLS COVER WIDE LATITUDE, SOME MAKE SPORT STATE-WIDE

OTHERS BAN IT ENTIRELY, BOXING SCANDALS HAVE EFFECT

St. Paul, Minn., March 6.—(UP)—Members of the Minnesota boxing commission will have an opportunity to confer with state legislators who are considering bills which would either make boxing state-wide or ban it entirely, it was announced today.

Ray Kern of Lake Elmo, chairman of the house committee on general legislation, announced he has written a letter to members of the commission inviting them to attend sessions of the committee. Kern pointed out in his letter that scandal in connection with the recent King Tut-Billy Petrolle bout in New York has aroused sentiment against the state-wide bill.

"At our next meeting," Kern's letter said, "definite action probably will be taken on these measures, one of which would extend boxing to every part of the state and another which would repeal the state boxing law."

NO BREAK WITH THE NO. CENTRAL BODY

FRITZ CRISLER SPEAKS OF ATHLETIC RELATIONS OF WESTERN CONFERENCE

Milwaukee, Wis., March 6.—(UP)—Although the western conference is expected to fight for control of its own athletics, Athletic Director Fritz Crisler of the University of Minnesota believes there will be no break with the North Central Association.

"The men in charge of Big Ten athletics are competent to conduct the affairs in a legitimate manner," he told members of the Minnesota Alumni Club here last night.

Touching briefly on his plans for increasing the Minnesota sports program, Crisler said the school needs a 18-hole golf course, three swimming pools, and an indoor hockey rink.

Minnesota, like Wisconsin, he said, should take advantage of the winter sports offered. An indoor hockey rink would stimulate great interest in the game, the coach believes.

Crisler said he would remain as head football coach and athletic director until the university's athletic affairs are "straightened out."

Boxing Considered a Gentleman's Pastime at Harvard

Here are the rules for tonight's fistic tourney between Harvard and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the first boxing meet to be held at America's oldest university.

1. No cheering

2. Applause only at the end of each bout.

3. The referee may disqualify any boxer whose followers cheer or applaud him while he is in action.

4. Spectators occupying ring-side seats shall wear tuxedos.

5. The referee shall wear a tuxedo coat and white flannels.

The M. I. T. team will be led by Smedley D. Butler, Jr., son of the marine general, who will meet Michael J. A. Adlis of Harvard in the 175-pound class. Butler has not been defeated this season.

800 PERSONS ARE INJURED AT GAME

RIOTS AT FOOTBALL PLAY BETWEEN HINDUS AND MOHAMMEDANS IN INDIA

Bombay, March 6.—(UP)—Rioting at a football game between Hindus and Mohammedans at Bangalore, capital of Mysore, caused the injury today of 800 persons, an official announcement said.

False reports that a mosque had been damaged precipitated fighting among the crowd, already excited by partisan support of the football players.

Part of the Mohammedans in the audience became violent and soon most of the crowd of 3,000 was engaged in a general fight on the field.

A detachment of the Mysore cavalry charged the crowd but was able to break up the demonstration only after troops dismounted and began firing into the air. The demonstrators fled from the field, pursued by the cavalry. Several horsemen were injured by stones.

NEW PROVISIONAL REGIME IS NOW GUIDING PERU

SECOND GOVERNMENT FOR THE
SOUTH AMERICAN REPUBLIC
WITHIN A WEEK

THE POSSIBILITY OF FURTHER
CHANGES AND FIGHTING NOT DEFINITELY REMOVED

By GESFORD F. FINE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Lima, Peru, March 6.—The quickly changing political situation in Peru was guided by a new provisional government today, the second within a week, but the possibility of further changes and possible fighting did not appear definitely removed.

The new government, headed by Lt. Col. Gustavo Jimenez, arrested the members of the aviation corps and seized the army's airplanes. The attitude of the navy remained problematical. The navy and the air corps combined last week to overthrow Provisional President Lt. Col. Luis F. Sanchez Cerro, and the new provisional president is one of Sanchez Cerro's most loyal supporters.

It was reported at the presidential palace today that Col. Eulogio Castillo, commander of the northern military division, had revolted against the junta government of Judge Ricardo Elias, who resigned in favor of Jimenez. Castillo's attitude toward the Jimenez coup was not divulged.

It also reported that Castillo had reinstated officials of the old Leguia regime in northern Peru. It was against President Augusto B. Leguia that Sanchez Cerro led a successful revolt.

Units of the Peruvian navy at Callao withdrew to Ancon, a short distance to the north, where naval aviation headquarters are located.

Meanwhile Jimenez carried on telegraphic negotiations with Samanes Ocampo, president of the junta established by southern rebels at Arequipa, now in Lima, who came here originally to confer with the Elias government regarding the establishment of a stable regime.

Some political quarters predicted that Sanchez Cerro would return to power, although he told the United Press that he intended to leave Peru for three months. Sanchez Cerro was called to the presidential palace immediately after the Jimenez coup and was given a tremendous greeting from the populace.

The latest change in government was accomplished without bloodshed and was carried out so quickly that most of the population was not aware of it. Lt. Col. Jimenez landed at Callao yesterday with two transport loads of troops that had been prevented by the navy from going south to oppose the Arequipa rebels. He led the troops to Lima in leisurely fashion, and arrived at the capital gate in the afternoon.

Jimenez then went to the presidential palace accompanied by several of his officers. There he found Dr. Ricardo Elias, chief justice of the supreme court who was named head of the junta government at Lima after Sanchez Cerro was overthrown. Jimenez informed Dr. Elias and three other members of the junta that he had returned to Lima with his troops to take charge of the government.

Dr. Elias and his ministers left without any manifestation and drove to their homes. The coup d'etat was complete.

OH THESE WOMEN!

By
LEOLA ALLARD

Copyright 1931, King Features
Syndicate, Inc.

Malevolent gossip that ruins the lives of people is started usually by women. There are male gossips, but not so many of them. There are still more busy men than women.

A girl in Indiana writes me that she wishes I'd say a word about people who blast reputations by starting gossipy speeches that grow into regular accusations and send men and women down to their graves. She refers especially to bank presidents. She is a stenographer and she is seeing a man driven to his death by gossip. She knows, she says, that he is a fine man and honest, but the gossips are getting him.

"When a bank goes broke," she writes, "through no fault of the president, when he is down and out himself with shock, it's so horrible for people to say 'I always suspected he was crooked,' or 'look at the fine cars he and his family ran around in, and the parties they gave. It serves him right.'"

"If he didn't spend his money, think of the people who wouldn't be working, people who build the cars, who sell them, and who keep them in repair. And with parties, there are caterers, maids, butlers who make their money from these expenditures of the rich. It made me boiling mad when I hear these fools with the silly, endless chatter raving on and on."

"The largest bank in our town closed the other day and all my savings are in it, as are those of almost everyone else in our town. I'm sure I'm not going to jump all over the poor old man who has worked hard all his life to make something of this town, and who has aged many years since the bank closed two weeks ago. If people would only remember what the Bible says about those without sin throwing the first stone."

"Don't mention my name. I'm only a lowly stenographer but I do try never to hurt anyone with idle speech."

"That girl has proved a very good reason why she is taking up space on earth and thousands more like her would be an acceptable gift for any community."

Not all business failures are due to crookedness, and I'm sure it's too bad to see successful humans jump with hoisted shoes upon the poor devils who are sitting on the side lines, helpless, watching their life's work toppling down. There is nothing very happy in the picture, and it calls for a little human kindness, sympathy and understanding.

A teacher in New York did a fine thing recently when the business owned by the father of one of her little pupils, was about to crash. She learned that it would take $1,500 more to save his small store and the man didn't have it. She took her savings to him. He wanted to give her a note or some security.

"No," she said, "I want to help you and I know you will give it back when you can. If you can't, what good would a note be? Take it and I wish you all the luck in the world."

It takes time for a teacher to save $1,500. She wasn't in love with the man, only with his baby daughter.

I'd like to take a good long admiring look at that woman, wouldn't you? Do you think she was a fool?

SUICIDE? MURDER? MIRACLE?

PARALYZED from that horrible accident! Never to walk again—I still burned with love for Olga—my sweet, young wife. And yet I was unable to appease that glow of hope in her eyes—hope that blazed with desire—the day she met Del Raigmon—unscrupulous matinee idol.

Helpless, I watched him play on her loving, innocent nature—biding his time till Olga no longer could resist him. How I suffered—prayed for her—raged with jealousy—and dropped to the dregs of despair.

That night—my revolver. "Good-bye, angel-heart," I whispered and—THEN! Out on the lawn—I saw Raigmon—take her—my wife—in his arms. "I can't let her live in that disgrace," I cried. Slowly I raised my revolver—carefully I took aim—and...

What did John do? In that awful climax, did he kill Olga to save her from disgrace with Raigmon? Or did he murder that sad—an act which would blacken him forever in the eyes of his wife—of society—of God?

What almighty miracle could have come to solve this pitiful tangle of helpless human destinies? You must read for yourself BECAUSE I LOVED MY WIFE—the true, heart-rending story of a man who wheeled his way through hell in an invalid's chair—and what he finally found at the very brink of oblivion.

NEW PROVISIONAL REGIME IS NOW GUIDING PERU

SECOND GOVERNMENT FOR THE
SOUTH AMERICAN REPUBLIC
WITHIN A WEEK

THE POSSIBILITY OF FURTHER
CHANGES AND FIGHTING NOT
DEFINITELY REMOVED

By GESFORD F. FINE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Lima, Peru, March 5.—The quickly changing political situation in Peru was guided by a new provisional government today, the second within a week, but the possibility of further changes and possible fighting did not appear definitely removed.

The new government, headed by Lt. Col. Gustavo Jimenez, arrested the members of the aviation corps and seized the army's airplanes. The attitude of the navy remained problematical. The navy and the air corps combined last week to overthrow Provisional President Lt. Col. Luis F. Sanchez Cerro, and the new provisional president is one of Sanchez Cerro's most loyal supporters.

It was reported at the presidential palace today that Col. Eulogio Castillo, commander of the northern military division, had revolted against the junta government of Judge Ricardo Elias, who resigned in favor of Jimenez. Castillo's attitude toward the Jimenez coup was not divulged.

It also reported that Castillo had reinstated officials of the old Leguia regime in northern Peru. It was against President Augusto B. Leguia that Sanchez Cerro led a successful revolt.

Units of the Peruvian navy at Callao withdrew to Ancon, a short distance to the north, where naval aviation headquarters are located.

Meanwhile Jimenez carried on telegraphic negotiations with Samanero Ocampo, president of the junta established by southern rebels at Arequipa, now in Lima, who came here originally to confer with the Elias government regarding the establishment of a stable regime.

Some political quarters predicted that Sanchez Cerro would return to power, although he told the United Press that he intended to leave Peru for three months. Sanchez Cerro was called to the presidential palace immediately after the Jimenez coup and was given a tremendous greeting from the populace.

The latest change in government was accomplished without bloodshed and was carried out so quickly that most of the population was not aware of it. Lt. Col. Jimenez landed at Callao yesterday with two transport loads of troops that had been prevented by the navy from going south to oppose the Arequipa rebels. He led the troops to Lima in leisurely fashion, and arrived at the capital gate in the afternoon.

Jimenez then went to the presidential palace accompanied by several of his officers. There he found Dr. Ricardo Elias, chief justice of the supreme court who was named head of the junta government at Lima after Sanchez Cerro was overthrown. Jimenez informed Dr. Elias and three other members of the junta that he had returned to Lima with his troops to take charge of the government.

Dr. Elias and his ministers left without any manifestation and drove to their homes. The coup d'etat was complete.

OH THESE WOMEN!

By
LEOLA ALLARD

Copyright 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.
Malicious gossip that ruins the lives of people is started usually by women. There are male gossips, but not so many of them. There are still more busy men than women.

A girl in Indiana writes me that she wishes I'd say a word about people who blast reputations by starting suggestive speeches that grow into regular accusations and send men and women down to bank presidents. She refers especially to her death by gossip. She knows, she says, that he is a fine man and honest, but the gossips are getting him.

"When a bank goes broke," she writes, "through no fault of the president, when he is down and out himself with shock, it's so horrible for people to say 'I always suspected he was crooked,' or 'look at the fine cars he and his family ran around in, and the parties they gave. It serves him right!'"

"If he didn't spend his money, think of the people who wouldn't be working, people who build the cars, who sell them, and who keep them in repair. And with parties, there are caterers, maids, butlers who make their money from these expenditures of the rich. It made me boiling mad when I hear these fools with the silly, senseless chatter raving on and on."

"The largest bank in our town closed the other day and all our savings are in it as are those of almost everyone else in our town. I'm sure I'm not going to jump all over the poor old man who has worked hard all his life to make something of this town, and who has aged many years since the bank closed two weeks ago. If people could only remember what the Bible says about those without sin throwing the first stone."

"Don't mention my name. I'm only a lowly stenographer but I do try never to hurt anyone with idle speech." That girl has proved a very good reason why she is taking up space on earth and thousands more like her would be an acceptable gift for any community.

Not all business failures are due to wickedness, and I'm sure it's too bad to see successful humans jump with hob-nailed shoes upon the poor devils who are sitting on the side lines, helpless, watching their life's work toppling down. There is nothing very happy in the picture, and it calls for a little human kindness, sympathy and understanding.

A teacher in New York did a fine thing recently when the business owned by the father of one of her little pupils, was about to crash. She learned that it would take $1,500 more to save his small store and the man didn't have it. She took her savings to him. He wanted to give her a note or some security.

"No," she said, "I want to help you and I know you will give it back when you can. If you can't, what good would a note be 'Take it and I wish you all the luck in the world'." It takes time for a teacher to save $1,500. She wasn't in love with the man, only with his baby daughter. I'd like to take a good long admiring look at that woman, wouldn't you? Do you think she was a fool?

GOODHUE FARMER DIES FROM BURNS

JOHN J. HADLER LOSES LIFE

Red Wing, Minn., March 6.—(U.P.) John J. Hadler, Goodhue farmer, died yesterday from burns received when his automobile ran into a ditch and caught fire.

His clothes ablaze and his car wrecked, Hadler was discovered by F. A. Thorfinson, Goodhue county agent, as he was motoring four miles south of Goodhue. Hadler was attempting to put out the flames by rolling on the ground when Thorfinson passed. The county agent helped extinguish the fire and took the farmer to a Red Wing hospital.

New Models Now on Display in South Fifth Street Show Rooms

The Twin City Motor Car Co., distributor of Hudson and Essex cars in this area, announces that Houle Motor will be the new dealer in Brainerd.

This appointment adds another important unit to Hudson's vast distributor and dealer organization. This large group is one of the most loyal, united and capable in the entire industry, presenting sales and service facilities in practically every city or town in the United States and Canada.

Eugene A. Houle said that he took on the Hudson and Essex franchise only after a thorough investigation had convinced him of their worth. "The Hudson Greater Eight and the Essex Super-Six," he said, "have long been favorites in Brainerd and we are equipped with experience, facilities and personnel to render our customers every possible service."

Mr. Houle is now showing both Hudson and Essex cars at his showroom on South 5th street.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Nancy Hollenbeck, young, vibrant and beautiful, becomes cynical toward love when she gives up Mat Tully at her mother's request because he is poor. She encourages the attentions of Jack Beamer, wealthy married man, who, enamored of Nancy, wishes to divorce his wife. On a mountain trip, Nancy falls in love with a handsome ranger, Roger Decatur. Leaving her chaperones, the rich Porters, Nancy, after a violent but brief courtship, secretly marries Roger. Her folks at home wonder at her continued absence. In Reno on their honeymoon, Roger pleads with Nancy to write her mother of their marriage. Mrs. Hollenbeck learns of the return of Mrs. Porter. Doubts assail Nancy as she spends long, lonely days in Roger's rough mountain cabin. Mrs. McKimmons, a neighboring ranger's wife, invites Nancy to visit her.

CHAPTER XXII.

"YOU see I didn't dress up for you!" she called gayly as Nancy left the mare at the hitching post and toiled up the last steep bit of dusty trail. And then, abashed by the elegance of her caller's whipcord breeches and white silk shirt she added quickly, "but you look so nice I wish I had!"

A wail from the child in the house effectively drowned Nancy's reply and a "There, there, mummy's coming, precious!" the faded bungalow apron dived into the house, and Nancy, a bit self-consciously, followed.

The Tenderfoot

There was none of Roger's rustic comfort here. Just makeshift, ugly furniture and the clutter of crowded living. The baby lay in his basket on top of the kitchen table. It was a pretty basket, point d'esprit shirred over pink silk. Helen McKimmons' chapped little hand caressed it while she talked. "I just hate to have him outgrowing his bassinet," she said. "I did have the darlings' cradle for him, but of course, after he came it wore out pretty quick. I don't believe there's much left to show you. Oh yes, his little blue sack and booties. He's never wore them. People give you things like that and they NEVER need them... now where did I put them?"

She pushed her hair out of her eyes with a plump hand and darted back to the other room. Nancy leaned over and touched the baby's soft cheek. He stared at her with solemn, unblinking eyes. Gingerly she patted a curled pink foot escaping from the blanket, and he opened his mouth and howled.

"There, lover, did he want his mummy?" Little Mrs. McKimmons came rushing back. "He's the BEST baby, but it's almost feeding time. Just take that rocking chair, Mrs. Decatur. My, but it's nice to meet somebody and have a nice talk. I get so lonely. Jack has been gone for almost a week—"

"And you're all alone—AT NIGHT?"

Mrs. McKimmons smiled tolerantly. "Oh, you get used to it. Though it IS lonely. I talk to the baby for company. Before he came I used to talk to myself, honestly. You'd have thought I was crazy! But it's going to be wonderful, having you. I thought I wouldn't make company of you, but you look so well—I just envy you!"

Nancy jerked at the collar of her smart silk shirt. "I ride a lot," she said, recklessly.

"Well, I did too at first. It's about all there is to do up here. But with Junior coming of course I had to stop." Mrs. McKimmons' frank gaze ran up and down her visitor's slim figure. "You're just married, aren't you?"

Nancy felt her color rising and raged. The idea, letting a girl like Helen McKimmons embarrass her! But the afternoon that had been amusing was ruined. She felt at a disadvantage. She was the newcomer, the tenderfoot. A morbid inscription that she had once seen lettered over a grinning skull, "As I am, so you will be," popped into her head. That was what the McKimmons girl was thinking. Broken nails, baby's wash! She couldn't get away fast enough.

"Oh, I'll be back soon!" she promised, and childishly, to herself, "NOT!"

She had to stop and tighten the cinch three times on the ride home, and Maggie almost ran away with her when she saw the barn ahead. Roger's battered roadster was out in front when she galloped up to the door. He ran out and lifted her from the saddle. "I heard you've been over calling on Helen McKimmons. Saddled old Maggie and everything, didn't you? Say, you're a regular!"

The tide of warmth and love that had welled in her heart at sight of him receded, leaving her cold and tired. "How did you find out?"

"Oh, somebody at the store overheard you girls on the telephone. They know all your business here, you know."

"So it seems," she said coolly. When he had gone to unaddle the horse she went into the kitchen to start dinner. The wood stove was stubborn and would not burn. She jabbed at the kindling viciously and got a sliver in her finger.

"Oh, by the way, Nancy, I'll have to be leaving you for a couple of days soon," Roger said coming into the room and beginning to wash at the sink.

A Ranger's Wife

Dully she watched him splash soapy water into her pot of nicely peeled potatoes. "And leave me alone?"

"Oh, come now, honey, you're a ranger's wife!"

"Take me with you," she whispered, creeping into his arms. He stroked her bright hair tenderly. "Don't make it hard for me, honey. You know I can't!"

She said nothing more and presently, with a light kiss for the top of her head, he disengaged her clinging arms and sat down to read day before yesterday's paper. "Forest fires raging in northwest," he read... "hmm... hope we don't catch 'em here!"

Nancy did not answer. She was poking cold ashes in the stove. That was the day Cora Craig met Mrs. Herman Porter at the Prescott's garden party.

Helen McKimmons telephoned twice, but Nancy didn't go back to the lookout on the hill.

"Mrs. McKimmons is a nice little thing. Don't you like her?" Roger questioned curiously.

"Yes—she's awfully nice." "Well, then, I should think you girls—"

But Nancy's mobile face darkened so quickly that he didn't finish. He was going to say, "You girls could keep each other company while McKimmons and I are away." But the least mention of going away upset her so that he hardly dared speak of it. He wondered how other fellows managed. Perhaps rangers oughtn't to marry at all... but how could he get along without Nancy or Nancy without him. They belonged to each other...

He followed her out to the lean-to kitchen, suddenly hungry for the sight of her, aching to hold her in his arms.

"Nancy—"

She was making icing for a cake, whisking the egg-beater, repeating from memory as she whisked—"Add sugar, beat seven minutes..."

"Roger, just look in the oven, will you? I can't leave this—"

He opened the door, eyes still on her. "Looks all right to me... oh, Nancy girl, you're beautiful. I don't suppose anyone ever told you that before?"

"Look at the CAKE!"

"Never mind the cake. What's a cake... love your old man, honey? Do you? Just a little—"

"Idiot, you know I do—that's why I'm slaving in your damned old kitchen, making cake for you stop, I've got to beat the icing!" But she didn't beat the icing, she left it to thicken and bubble unstirred on the stove. She couldn't resist Roger. She never could. Not since the day in the Meadows when the bus went off without her and she lay, tearful and happy in his arms, in a freshly rain-washed world, with violets blooming through the soft green carpet of the grass, and the blue sky above...

"Roger, no one ever loved as we do—"

"No, Nancy... Nancy, kiss me again—oh, my dear, what would I do without you? I wasn't living before you came—"

"Don't ever leave me—"

They clung together, happy... happy... happy.

The smell of burnt cake came from the oven. The ruined icing boiled on the stove. Smoke curled round the kitchen.

"Roger Decatur, you've gone and made me burn my cake!" Roger jerked it out of the oven—burnt to a crisp. There was a little round spot in the middle, quite unspoiled. They ate it, gingerly, it was so hot. Their laughter echoed through the little house. What's a cake? What's a smoky, sticky kitchen, when you're in love?

While they cleaned up the mess together she said, "We'll always be like this, won't we... carefree, I mean... not settled and horribly MARRIED like the McKimmons."

He didn't understand. "Why, I always thought they were an ideal couple. Gee, they seem happy. And they've got a mighty fine little kid."

"Yes—he's cute." Nancy slammed the cupboard. "Let's get out of the kitchen—"

And she thought, walking back to the "sitting room," her arms interlaced with Roger's... "Oh well, you can't expect men to understand those things... besides it's the girl who sets the pace in marriage. That McKimmons girl LIKES her life... she made it for herself... Roger and I will never be like that... domestic and shabby... We're lovers... we're different..."

Reality

It was easy to feel that when he was with her. When he was away it wasn't so simple. She'd wave to him from the doorway when he would ride away on Maggie, or go chugging and backfiring down the narrow, dusty road in the old roadster. Then she'd go back to the kitchen, scene of their joyous, picnic breakfast.

And it would seem that a spell had come over the place. There would be nothing joyous or picnic-like about it now. Just shabby and greasy. Full of dirty dishes. She would poke up the fire and put a kettle on to heat. Imagine having to heat water for everything... dish-washing, bathing, everything...

While the water would be heating she would go back to the big room that had seemed so cozy and romantic last night. The fat iron stove would look at her coldly. She'd see the nail holes in the homemade bookcases, the stuffing beginning to work through the cretonne covering of the barrel chair, the dust Roger had tracked onto the Navajo rugs... It looked like Helen McKimmons' place...

Hastily she would run to the mirror, study her lovely face in the glass. Was her skin getting leathery? Was her hair as bright and soft as it was?

She would look at her rouged hands... wonder how long before she'd have another manicure... get to thinking about home... mama... Louise... Jack Beamer...

Suppose she had married Jack instead... Visions of life as it might have been would go racing through her head... A maid... All her clothes in order... soft lights, a silken bed...

(Continued from Page 1) hands. The sandwiches were delivered to the house and finally Kirkland and two others started home.

Not until then, Kirkland testified, did he suspect that Arlene's "sleep" was the silence of death.

The youth trembled as he denied fleeing a physician's office when told that Arlene was dead. He said he went to the automobile for the girls' hat and coat and was searching for them when his companions jumped in and drove away.

He was not questioned about the state's charges that four other youths, Thompson, Barton, Henry Shirk and Leon Stanford, attacked Arlene.

"Take me with you," she whispered, creeping into his arms. He stroked her bright hair tenderly. "Don't make it hard for me, honey. You know I can't!"

She said nothing more and presently, with a light kiss for the top of her head, he disengaged her clinging arms and sat down to read day before yesterday's paper. Forest fires raging in northwest, he read. "Hm . . . hope we don't catch it here!"

Nancy did not answer. She was poking cold ashes in the stove.

That was the day Cora Craig met Mrs. Herman Porter at the Prescott's garden party.

Helen McKimmons telephoned twice, but Nancy didn't go back to the lookout on the hill.

"Mrs. McKimmons is a nice little thing. Don't you like her?" Roger questioned curiously.

"Yes—she's awfully nice."

"Well, then, I should think you girls—"

But Nancy's mobile face darkened so quickly that he didn't finish. He was going to say, "You girls could keep each other company while McKimmons and I are away." But the least mention of going away upset her so that he hardly dared speak of it. He wondered how other fellows oughtn't to marry at all . . . but how could he get along without Nancy or Nancy without him. They belonged to each other. . . .

He followed her out to the lean-to kitchen, suddenly hungry for the sight of her, aching to hold her in his arms.

"Nancy—"

She was making icing for a cake, whisking the egg-beater, repeating from memory as she whisked—"Add sugar, beat seven minutes . . ."

"Roger, just look in the oven; will you? I can't leave this—"

He opened the door, eyes still on her. "Looks all right to me . . . oh, Nancy girl, you're beautiful. I don't suppose anyone ever told you that before?"

"Look at the CAKE!"

"Never mind the cake . . . what's a cake . . . love your old man, honey? Do you? Just a little—"

"Idiot, you know I do—that's why I'm slaving in your damned old kitchen, making cake for you . . . stop, I've got to beat the icing!" But she didn't beat the icing; she left it to thicken and bubble unstirred on the stove. She couldn't resist Roger. She never could. Not since the day in the Meadows when the bus went off without her and she lay, tearful and happy in his arms, in a freshly rain-washed world, with violets blooming through the soft green carpet of the grass, and the blue sky above . . .

"Roger, no one ever loved as we do—"

"No, Nancy . . . Nancy, kiss me again—oh, my dear, what would I do without you? I wasn't living before you came—"

"Don't ever leave me—"

They clung together, happy . . . happy . . . happy . . .

The smell of burnt cake came from the oven. The ruined icing boiled on the stove. Smoke curled round the kitchen.

"Roger Decatur, you've gone and made me burn my cake!" Roger jerked it out of the oven—burnt to a crisp. There was a little round spot in the middle, quite unspoiled. They ate it gingerly, it was so hot. Their laughter echoed through the little house.

What's a cake? What's a smoky, sticky kitchen, when you're in love?

While they cleaned up the mess together she said, "We'll always be like this, won't we . . . carefree, I mean . . . not settled and horribly MARRIED like the McKimmons."

He didn't understand. "Why, I always thought they were an ideal couple. Gee, they seem happy. And they've got a mighty fine little kid."

"Yes—he's cute." Nancy slammed the cupboard. "Let's get out of the kitchen—"

And she thought, walking back to the "sitting room," her arms interlaced with Roger's. "Oh well, you can't expect men to understand those things . . . besides it's the girl who sets the pace in marriage. That McKimmons girl LIVES her life . . . she made it for herself. . . . Roger and I will never be like that . . . domestic and shabby . . . We're lovers . . . we're different . . ."

Reality

It was easy to feel that when he was with her. When he was away it wasn't so simple.

She'd wave to him from the doorway when he would ride away on Maggie, or go chugging and backfiring down the narrow, dusty trail, or go back to the kitchen, scene of their joyous, picnic breakfast.

And it would seem that a spell had come over the place. There would be nothing joyous or picnic about it now. Just shabby and greasy. Full of dirty dishes. She would poke up the fire and put a kettle on to heat. Imagine having to heat water for everything . . . dish-washing, bathing, everything . . .

While the water would be heating she would go back to the big room that had seemed so cozy and romantic last night. The fat iron stove would look at her coldly. She'd see the nail holes in the homemade bookcases, the stuffing beginning to work through the cretonne covering of the barrel chair, the dust Roger had tracked onto the Navajo rugs. . . . It looked like Helen McKimmons' place. . . .

She would look at her roughened hands . . . wonder how long before she'd have another manicure . . . get to thinking about home . . . mama . . . Louise . . . Jack Beamer. Suppose she had married Jack instead . . . Visions of life as it might have been would go racing through her head . . . A maid. All her clothes in order . . . soft lights, a silken bed . . .

hands. The sandwiches were delivered to the house and finally Kirkland and two others started home.

Not until then, Kirkland testified, did he suspect that Arlene's "sleep" was the silence of death.

The youth trembled as he denied fleeing a physician's office when told that Arlene was dead. He said he went to the automobile for the girl's hat and coat and was searching for them when his companions jumped in and drove away.

He was not questioned about the state's charges that four other youths, Thompson, Barton, Henry Shirk and Leon Stanford, attacked Arlene.
